imposterum edendorum.—Romæ 1794, Ex Typographia Rev. Cameræ Apostolicæ. Price 8d.

7. A Short Essay on the Christian Religion, descriptive of the Advantages which have accrued to Society by the Establishment of it, as contrasted with the Manners and Customs of Mankind before that happy Period. To which are added, a few occasional Remarks on Philosophers in general, as also some of the objections started against the Christian Religion by the fashionable writers of the present age. The whole proposed as a Preservative against the pernicious Doctrines which have overwhelmed France with Misery and Desolation.—“Avoid all those,” says J. J. Rousseau, “who under pretence of explaining nature, sow in the hearts of men disconsolate doctrines, and whose apparent scepticism is a hundred times more dictatorial and dogmatical, than the decisive tone of their adversaries.” (Emile, t. iii. p. 101.) By a sincere Friend of Mankind. Price 2s. 6d.
